

Allison C. George

Allison George is an Associate General Counsel at the U.S. Office of Government Ethics. In this capacity, she assists OGE develop executive branch ethics program policies and regulations, interprets laws and regulations, and assists agencies in legal and policy implementations. Ms. George recently spent almost a year in the White House Counsel's Office where she counseled very senior White House officials on numerous ethics issues, reviewed annual financial disclosure reports, assisted OGE and agencies in the review of nominee reports, conducted monthly ethics training for new White House staff, and performed various other matters. Prior to joining OGE, Ms. George was Senior Counsel at the Washington, D.C. office of Foley & Lardner, where she counseled multi-national corporations and organizations on foreign business practices, anti-corruption initiatives, and campaign finance, lobbying and ethics laws. While in private practice, Ms. George specialized in developing and implementing global corporate compliance programs, as well as in conducting substantial internal investigations concerning alleged violations of the Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, improper payments, kickbacks, fraud and corruption. She has also represented clients in Congressional investigations, and in civil and criminal federal enforcement actions. Ms. George received her B.A. from Yale University and her J.D. from the Duke University School of Law.

Allison George
Associate General Counsel
U.S. Office of Government Ethics
202-482-9242
acgeorge@oge.gov