SUMMARY:

Become be a part of one of the largest digital information facilities in the world!
Established by Congress in 1861, Government Publishing Office (GPO)is transforming itself as an agency and as a business. We provide other agencies with innovative services for the printing, publishing, storage, and distribution of digital content. This position is located in the Office of the Inspector General (OIG), an independent office within GPO, in Washington D.C. The OIG is responsible for conducting or overseeing all audits, inspections, reviews, evaluations, and investigations relating to programs and operations of the GPO. OIG activities promote economy, effectiveness and efficiency at GPO, and also prevent and detect fraud, waste, and abuse in Agency programs and operations. This position serves as the Deputy Inspector General (DIG). The DIG acts secondary to the Inspector General (IG) and serves as the alternate expert responsible for monitoring and managing the OIG operations, including administrative, budget, and personnel matters, as well as coordinating overall policy, plans, requirements, direction, and priorities of the office.

Responsibilities

This position is located in the Office of the Inspector General (OIG), an independent office within the Government Publishing Office (GPO), as defined by 44 U.S.C. §§ 3901-3903. The OIG is responsible for conducting or overseeing all audits, inspections, reviews, evaluations, and investigations relating to programs and operations of the GPO. This position serves as the Deputy Inspector General (DIG).

As the Deputy, the incumbent is the second in charge within the OIG and serves as the expert and alter ego to the Inspector General (IG) and provides management continuity within the OIG. The DIG has full authority to act as the Inspector General in his/her absence, sharing with the latter the responsibility to monitor and manage operations of the office, to include (a) directing workload; (b) coordinating overall policy, plans, requirements, direction, and priorities; (c) managing the administrative functions of the office, to include budget and personnel; and, (d) as needed performing the full range of responsibilities of a supervisory Assistant IG. The DIG may also, represent the IG at briefings, meetings, and conferences.

The incumbent assists, advises and represents the IG and shares responsibility for professional legal review, policy formulation, strategic planning, program oversight, administration, and operational management. The incumbent has full oversight responsibility for audits, evaluations, and inspections of fiscal, administrative, management activities. The incumbent also has full oversight authority for overseeing and coordinating investigations of possible fraud, waste, and abuse to promote economy, efficiency and effectiveness.

The incumbent promotes policies and procedures that are in accordance with applicable Inspector General Statutes, regulations, and other standards established by the Council of the Inspectors General on Integrity and Efficiency (CIGIE).

The incumbent receives general policy guidance from the IG and is regarded as the subject matter expert on organizational performance evaluation. Incumbent must have at least one year of supervisory or managerial experience preferably in an OIG, including in investigative programs, audits, and/or inspections and evaluations.

The incumbent must be able to obtain and maintain a Top Secret Security Clearance.

Qualifications:

The work of this position requires professional knowledge and experience in directing audits, inspections and evaluations, and/or criminal and general investigations; knowledge of internal and government auditing principles and methodologies; and broad knowledge of legislation and regulations relating to GPO’s programs in order to serve as Deputy IG. Individual must have at least one year of supervisory or managerial experience, preferably in an OIG’s investigative, audits, and/or inspections and evaluations program. Finally, it requires excellent written and oral communication skills in order to represent the IG effectively in dealing with high level officials on GPO matters.

Note: This information must be supported in your resume to be considered for this position.

A complete application package must include:

- RESUME: Your resume, or other written form you choose to describe your job-related experiences are used to verify your qualifications. It is important that your resume reflects the duties and responsibilities under each position you have held with each employer.

- SF-50, Notification of Personnel Action: To be considered for this position, you must be a current or former Federal employee, GS-15 (or equivalent) and have completed the one year probationary period for Federal supervisors. Therefore, you must submit a Notification of Personnel Action (SF-50) showing the highest grade level held in a position for which you are using to qualify; and your SF-50 showing that you completed one year of service as a Federal supervisor. Your SF-50 must also include the Position Title and Series, Step, Salary, Tenure, Position Occupied, and promotion potential (if applicable) to verify your status and eligibility. Failure to submit the information required will result in an ineligible rating under merit promotion procedures.

- PERFORMANCE EVALUATIONS: Copy of your most recent performance appraisal. If your performance appraisal is not dated within the last 12 months or if you are unable to provide a recent performance appraisal, you must provide a written statement explaining why it was not obtainable.
