

Federal Bureau of Investigations, NCIJTF team

As part of the National Cyber Investigative Joint Task Force (NCIJTF), the Virtual Currency Team (VCT) is housed within the Office of Threat Pursuit (OTP). The Office of Threat Pursuit enhances investigations by applying financial investigative techniques, procedures, and business acumen to identify evidence of criminal and national security threats, identify co-conspirators and benefactors, establish an enterprise's hierarchy, and identify and seize assets. The Office of Threat Pursuit established the Virtual Currency Team to leverage the collective subject matter expertise of its members, as well as employees in other U.S. Intelligence Community (USIC) agencies, international law enforcement partners, and private sector specialists. Representing the Virtual Currency Team and providing an overview of both the team's capabilities and cryptocurrencies in general are three of the team's analysts: Andrew Bacon, Dalton Waddell, and Kyle Petronella.
