

James Gould
Partner, KPMG

James Gould is an audit partner in KPMG's Federal Audit practice in Washington, DC, with over 20 years of experience focused on performing Chief Financial Officers Act audits, examinations, performance audits, and agreed upon procedures for Federal agencies. For the last 5 years, he has been involved in leading and conducting financial statement audits at several large Federal Department Agencies, to include the Department of Transportation (DOT), Federal Aviation Administration, Department of Agriculture Commodity Credit Corporation, Risk Management Agency/Federal Crop Insurance Corporation, Farm Service Agency, and Natural Resources Conservation Service, and Department of Defense agencies. From January 2013 to December 2015, Mr. Gould served on rotation in KPMG's Department of Professional Practice. In that role, Mr. Gould responded to engagement team technical inquiries and provided guidance to engagement teams related to Government Auditing Standards and Federal audit guidelines.

Mr. Gould has a Master of Science in Accounting and a Bachelor of Business Administration from James Madison University and is a Certified Public Accountant in Virginia, Maryland, Washington, DC, and New York, and a Certified Government Financial Manager. He is active in the Association of Government Accountants, and previously served on the AGA's National Finance and Budget Committee. He lives in South Riding, VA with his wife Kim and two kids, Grace and Gavin.